Grammy-winning soul superstar Billy Ocean returns to Bunn Leisure

When the Going Gets Tough, the Tough Get Going . . . to Sussex to see legendary soul superstar Billy Ocean perform live at Bunn Leisure on April 23.

The world-famous singer, who won a Grammy for best male R&B vocal performance for his hit Caribbean Queen, is one of Bunn Leisure's most popular acts.

He is returning after a smash-hit performance last year to wow the audience at Bunn Leisure's 2,000-capacity Embassy Club.

It's a rare opportunity to see one of the biggest stars of the 1980s – and all entertainment is free for guests at Bunn Leisure. A three-night break costs from just £185 for up to six people, or why not pitch a tent for as little as £35 a night?

Billy has played to millions at LiveAid and has run up an impressive string of hits including Caribbean Queen, When the Going Gets Tough, the Tough Get Going and Get Outta My Dreams, Get Into My Car. His worldwide record sales have reached more than 30 million, he has made five Gold and Platinum selling albums and has been honoured with a MOBO Lifetime Achievement Award.

Billy Ocean's return is the perfect excuse for a party weekend with friends or family and a stay at Bunn Leisure includes free access to an amazing range of kids' clubs and megasplash 'Oasis' complex with waterslides and a lazy river.

If you want to sit back and relax, Bunn Leisure's very own beauty salon, sauna and peaceful views of neighbouring nature reserves make this the perfect place to come for a couples retreat and family getaways.

To book, log on to www.bunnleisure.co.uk or call the booking line on 01243 606080.

* The £185 three-night break is based on six people sharing a two-bedroom standard caravan.
Camping is £25 a night for a standard pitch or £37.50 a night for an electric pitch.
