The Beat Goes On at Bunn Leisure

DreamWorks Animation Television has teamed up with award-winning holiday park Bunn Leisure to celebrate the release of the Netflix original series Trolls: The Beat Goes On!, a 2018 animated series that picks up where the 2016 family award winning CGI movie, Trolls, left off.

The holiday park on the beautiful Manhood Peninsula welcomed lead characters Poppy and Branch to launch its partnership with the television network in a colourful Trolls inspired party that included family games, party dances to the TV series soundtrack, and a lively sing-along.

Hundreds of people attended the launch party at Bunn Leisure's popular Embassy entertainment venue, where children had the chance to win Poppy hair brands, stickers, sun screen, bouncy balls and Trolls wristbands, courtesy of DreamWorks Animation TV, before getting to meet their favourite Trolls in person.

Trolls: The Beat Goes On opens up the colourful world of the lovable Trolls for new adventures and a dance party around every corner, and is streaming on Netflix now.

As part of the fun, Bunn Leisure has partnered with DreamWorks TV and inviting children of all ages to join the Trolls' pursuit of happiness at its West Sussex holiday park this summer, by enjoying a host of Trolls inspired activities – they'll even be given their own troll names, fun hairstyles, followed by a Trolls fun hunt.

To be part of adventure, just book your summer break direct with Bunn Leisure, and all entertainment is free to guests.

All attractions and activities are based on one 300-acre holiday park, split into three villages and a touring park right on the coast at Selsey.

A three-night break starts from only £198 for up to six people in a static caravan, or one night stay at Bunn Leisure's Warner Farm Touring & Camping starts from as little as £25. Even better, why not go all out and try a premium holiday house or cottage complete with hot tub options, for up to 12 people, perfect for that big family and friends weekend away.
